-- The MAILING DATE of this communication appears on the cover sheet with the correspondence address --

Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) OR THIRTY (30) DAYS, WHICHEVER IS LONGER, FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

Status

- 1) ☒ Responsive to communication(s) filed on 14 January 2004.
- 2a) ☐ This action is FINAL. 2b) ☒ This action is non-final.
- 3) ☐ Since this application is in condition for allowance except for formal matters, prosecution as to the merits is closed in accordance with the practice under Ex parte Quayle, 1935 C.D. 11, 453 O.G. 213.

Art Unit: 2154

1. The current title is not descriptive. A new title is required that is clearly indicative of the invention to which the claims are directed.

Art Rejections:

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

4. Claims 1-4 and 6-14 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kobata et al, U.S. pat. Appl. Pub. No. 2002/0082997.

Art Unit: 2154

Kobata discloses a system and method for tracking usage and distribution of digital content in a network, comprising:

- a) a data transmitting unit (338) operable to transmit digital content to a first communication terminal (see paragraph 75);
- b) a history information memorizing unit (340) operable to store/memorize, per data for transmission, information which includes information specifying the first communication terminal as propagation history information that shows a propagation route of the concerned data (see par. 76);
- c) a propagation information receiving unit (338) operable to receive, from the first communication terminal, propagation information that shows that data for transmission is transmitted from the first communication terminal to a second communication terminal (see par. 108, 113); and
- d) a history information updating unit operable to add the received propagation information to corresponding propagation history information memorized in the history information memorizing unit (see par. 114).

Kobata does not explicitly show specific device to transmit and receive data between computers in the network.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to utilize any conventional network I/O interfaces for transmitting data between computers in the network because it would have enabled practicing Kobata's invention.

Per claim 2, Kobata teaches using the central database to collect digital content usage and distribution information from different terminals (see par. 109).

Per claim 3, Kobata teaches setting a specific number of times that a digital content can be used or distributed (see par. 76).

Per claim 4, it is noted that the retransmission of data in response to detected data transmission error is well known in the art. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to utilize such data retransmission in Kobata because it would have ensured the destination computer to receive the entire content properly.

Per claim 6, Kobata further teaches authenticating the user and digital content to verify legitimate use of the content (see par. 143-144).

Claims 7-14 are similar in scope as that of claims 1-4 and 6.

Allowable Subject Matter:

5. Claim 5 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion:

6. Any inquiry concerning this communication or earlier communications from the examiner should be directed to Viet Vu whose telephone number is 571-272-3977. The examiner can normally be reached on Monday through Friday from 7:00am to 4:00pm. The Group general information number is 571-272-2100. The Group fax number is 571-273-8300.

If attempts to reach the examiner by telephone are unsuccessful, the examiner's supervisor, Nathan Flynn, can be reached on 571-272-1915.
